QUESTION WITH RATIONALE 100% CORRECT AND ACCURATE GRADED A+.

When describing patient education approaches, the nurse educator would explain that informal teaching is an approach that

- a. follows formalized plans
- b. has standardized content
- c. often occurs one-to-one

d. addresses group needs - ANSWER >>>>C. Informal teaching is individualized one on one teaching which represents the majority of patient education done by nurses that occurs when an intervention is explained or a question is ANSWER. Group needs are often the focus of formal patient education courses or classes. Informal teaching does not necessarily follow a specific formalized plan. It may be planned with specific content, but it is individualized responses to patient needs. Formal teaching involves the use of a curriculum/course plan with standardized content.

A patient expresses a strong interest in returning to their work, family, and hobbies after having a stroke. Which theory type would the nurse use to develop a plan of care for the best results of this patient's motivation style?

- a. field
- b. biological
- c. cognitive
