together selected papers presented during the 9th International Conference of the Association of Czech Teachers of English titled Teaching for Tomorrow and hosted by the English Department of the Faculty of Science Humanities and Education at the Technical University of Liberec Czech Republic The conference brought together English Language Teaching ELT professionals from primary secondary and tertiary education to discuss a variety of English as a Foreign Language EFL related topics ranging from reports on language research to viewpoints and insights on classroom practice The contributions are grouped into three sections a Focus on Selected Language Topics b Increasing Learner Autonomy and c Innovative Teaching English as a Foreign Language TEFL ideas Papers were carefully chosen in order to appeal to a broad audience. Consequently there are articles which have a mainly theoretical bent and those which have a more practical leaning. Although the conference was hosted in the Czech Republic and the majority of participants were from this country the book is relevant to any context where English is taught as a foreign or second language. Therefore teachers, advanced students of English, language researchers and indeed anyone engaged in the EFL profession will find this collection both educational and thought provoking.

Information Highlighting in Advanced Learner English Marcus Callies, 2009-04-08. This book presents the first detailed and comprehensive study of information highlighting in advanced learner language, echoing the increasing interest in questions of near native competence in SLA research and contributing to the description of advanced interlanguages. It examines the production and comprehension of specific means of information highlighting in English by native speakers and German learners of English as a foreign language, presenting triangulated experimental and learner corpus data as corroborating evidence. The study focuses on learners' use of discourse pragmatically motivated variations of the basic word order such as inversion, preposing and it and wh clefts, an underexplored field in SLA research to date. The book also provides a critical reassessment of the study of pragmatics within SLA. It has largely been neglected to date that L2 pragmatic knowledge includes more than the sociopragmatic and pragmalinguistic abilities for understanding and performing speech acts. Thus the book argues for an extension of the scope of inquiry in interlanguage pragmatics beyond the cross cultural investigation of speech acts. It also discusses pedagogical implications for foreign language teaching and will be of interest to applied linguists and SLA researchers, language teachers and curriculum designers.

The Cambridge Handbook of English Corpus Linguistics Douglas Biber, Randi Reppen, 2015-06-25. The Cambridge Handbook of English Corpus Linguistics (CHECL) surveys the breadth of corpus based linguistic research on English, including chapters on collocations, phraseology, grammatical variation, historical change and the description of registers and dialects. The most innovative aspects of the CHECL are its emphasis on critical discussion, its explicit evaluation of the state of the art in each sub discipline and the inclusion of empirical case studies. While each chapter includes a broad survey of previous research, the primary focus is on a detailed description of the most important corpus based studies in this area, with discussion of what those studies found and why they are important. Each chapter also includes a critical discussion of the corpus based methods employed for research in this area as well as an explicit summary of new findings and discoveries.

Developing Advanced English Language Competence Armin Berger, Helen Heaney, Pia Resnik, Angelika Rieder-Bünemann, Galina Savukova, 2022-02-03. This volume presents a systematic approach to developing advanced English language competence at tertiary level It includes the reflections of experienced language teachers and teacher researchers in the English Language Competence programme at the University of Vienna and provides examples of good practice amalgamating teaching expertise and research with aspects of curriculum design and programme management The book addresses a growing academic and professional interest in understanding advanced language learning and use To date research has tended to investigate advanced proficiency from a specific theoretical viewpoint for example cognition psycholinguistic processing strategies or the assumption of a critical period or the age factor In contrast this work examines advanced proficiency from a curricular and instructional perspective by providing a profile of advanced level language development in a specific institutional context It brings together three areas of language education curriculum design pedagogical practice and research Within this triangle advanced English language education is the focus or conversely advanced English language education provides the lens through which links between curriculum design teaching and research can be established *Advanced Grammar in Use.
