Excerpt:
The head coach. Not infrequently a player who shows unexpected ability is promoted from the scrubs to the varsity squad. It often happens that some players show well at first but cannot stand the mental and physical strain of the season. Others flourish on hard work and seem to possess the ability to perform at their best when under stress. It therefore behooves the coach to study constantly the characteristics and personalities of the candidates. In some cases if a player is of recognized skill it is well to treat him leniently and to encourage him in order to instill and maintain self confidence. In utter contrast others have to be driven at all times to bring out their latent possibilities. It is only by thus differentiating the treatment of individuals that the best is obtained from all. Herein lies a subtle factor which often makes or breaks a football team. As in the training of all other groups of human beings for any concerted action it is necessary to establish and maintain strict discipline among football players throughout the whole season. This not only applies to punctuality and a close observance of training rules but also to the ingraining into each player of instantaneous and instinctive obedience to the word of command. These two adjectives have a distinct bearing on offensive team maneuvers. It is comparatively easy to teach a team to start in unison at the snap of the ball or if a starting signal is used on the proper number but it takes weeks of intensive rehearsing to reach a stage of development where each player performs his various assignments subconsciously. This asset is of particular value in the final games of the season when the atmosphere of excitement and noise of the Professional football players undergo a rigorous competitive season with frequent and numerous competitions exposing them to significant stress that can detrimentally affect their performance and lead to serious injuries in extreme cases. In order to avert such negative outcomes coaches and team staff must formulate preventive training programs tailored to the unique characteristics and needs of each player. The execution of these individualized training programs necessitates a comprehensive assessment of players health status evaluation of their functional and fitness performance analysis of their muscular structure identification of muscle imbalances or movement dysfunctions and detection of potential injury risk factors. Furthermore it is imperative to monitor the weekly training and competition load using appropriate indicators of external and internal load adjusting workloads accordingly. In addition recovery training programs must be meticulously designed for each injured player. This process involves isolating the factors causing the injury and assessing the injury's severity in the initial stage. Subsequently recovery training programs must be thoughtfully planned incorporating various assessment tools and procedures to verify the restoration of players functional ability and inform decisions about the return to play. Physiological and Functional Assessment of Professional Football Players delves into the utilization of appropriate testing protocols and emphasizes that understanding the reported data is crucial for the success of professional football training.
