Legal Discrepancies: Internal Displacement of Women and Children in Africa Veronica Patience Fynn, 2010-09-29 Veronica Fynn's Legal Discrepancies: Internal Displacement of Women and Children in Africa is not only timely, produced soon after Africa adopts its historical Convention on the Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced People in Africa, 2009. Legal Discrepancies: Internal Displacement of Women and Children in Africa offers the first comprehensive, holistic and multi-disciplinary examination on the efficacy of international, regional and national laws and policies in protecting and assisting IDPs. Fynn's research provides a thought-provoking framework for academics, lawyers, public health practitioners, aid workers, national governments, regional institutions and international organizations to rethink the legal space within which internally displaced peoples linger.

psychopathology or vision in humans has been complemented by evidence elucidating molecular gene and hormonal mechanisms in animals. It has been proposed that sensitive periods can be both opened and closed by specific experience and that there are multiple overlapping sensitive periods that occur throughout development as functions come on line. It is also likely that experience dependent behavioral or brain plasticity accrued during one sensitive period can serve as a scaffold on which later experience and plasticity can build. Based on current knowledge there are a number of broad questions and challenges to be addressed in this domain. These include generating new information about the neurobiological mediators of structural and functional changes, proposing models of brain development that will better predict when sensitive periods should occur and what functions are implicated, investigation of the interaction between experience during a sensitive period and pre-existing individual differences, and the relationship between experience during a sensitive period and ongoing experience. The goal of this Research Topic is to bring together scientists in different fields whose work addresses these issues including animal and human developmental neuroscience, language and cognitive development, education, developmental psychopathology, and sensory neuroscience.
