08/30/13	Lord of the Rings After reading I wonder.... I finished Lord of the Rings , and I wonder why Tolkien chose to end it with Frodo travelling to the Grey Havens. I am curious if this was to stop rumors of future books by truly finalizing an ending in which no return could happen. Throughout the book Frodo's goal is to save Middle Earth and eventually return to The Shire, but ultimately this is not what happens for him. He returns to The Shire, but he is changed dramatically, and seemingly can never be whole or completely happy again. He is withdrawn and cannot regain his previous provincial life. In this ultimate good versus evil novel, why would the author knowingly choose to have his protagonist not re-gain his previous life? What commentary does this state about our lives when we experience hardships?	Pg. 1178
