and turn those frowns upside down," said Ms. Carroll. The class had six outdoor stations, we'll need six indoor games to replace them. Five minutes later, Ms. Carroll typed an email to the other teachers about the last-minute changes. The class headed to the gym. They stacked equipment against one wall. Then, at their teacher's direction, the kindergarten classes, one group by primary pod, another group measured bean bags and arranged the bean bags all near the principal's office, kids played and set a basket of balls against one between their knees. In the grade hall, yet another group lined up smaller balls for "Boro buckets." Mario and Priah's group placed a bag in half, the teacher would give a signal and they would compete to see which group would win.

Field Day

By Brenda Kovach

Mario pulled a thick rope out from under a gymnastics mat. "I found what we need for the tug-of-war!" he shouted. "Great, bring it over here," said Ms. Carroll. She pointed to a space on the floor between a set of orange cones and a stack of buckets. "Looks like we're all set for field day," Mario told his best friend, Priah. Smiling, they bumped fists. "Field day is the perfect way to spend the last day of school," Priah said. Mario nodded in agreement. "And planning field day makes it even better. Our teacher organizes it every year." "Time to head back to the classroom and pack up," Ms. Carroll called. "We'll haul all this stuff out to the playground tomorrow morning." That night, Mario dreamed about field day. As he pulled himself out of bed with all his might, he heard a jet fly overhead. He woke up, and he realized he had to see his teacher the next day to see how they would compete to see which group would win.
