The connectivity between you and people all around the world is also a better way to meet long-distance people over the network. Although you cannot meet physically with people over the Internet, you can still share your ideas, feelings, and make touch with them.

As compared to other forms of communication, to communicate on the Internet is fast. For instance, postal mail could take much time or days to arrive where on the Internet, you can send e-mail to anyone that will be reached in less than a few minutes.

Get a better understanding of data

Computers also help users to understand data better. For instance, there could be a database of sold items in a business. A businessman can identify what products are sold best quantity time of year and what items are not selling with the help of stored data on the computer.
