Quest for World-Class Teacher Education? Jun Li, 2016-07-25 Utilizing a case study method and a Multiperspectival Approach this volume presents a pioneering in depth study about China's teacher education policy since the 1990s It critically investigates the rational dynamic and complex implementation process taking place at the micro institutional level for the transformations of teacher education institutions The book first introduces the sociopolitical and cultural background of China's teacher education system and its challenges under the condition of globalization and illustrates major national initiatives for nurturing highly qualified teachers It then explores new teachers identities in an era of enhanced professionalism uncovers the ways they reflect China's teacher education reform and distills the rationales behind these policy actions This is followed by an analytic presentation of the findings of the case study of a provincial normal university with a particular focus on such core pieces of the implementation jigsaw as policy flow the dynamism of implementation sociopolitical and cultural confluence and institutional barriers in the complex process Lastly the book unravels key recommendations and implications for policy implementation studies from the China policy case and constructs a Chinese Zhong Yong Model of policy implementation and sheds new light on policy studies of teacher education reform in particular and public policy in general which may be transferable to other sociopolitical contexts seeking to nurture world class teachers and achieve educational excellence in a global age

Quantitative Methods in Tourism Rodolfo Baggio, Jane Klobas, 2011-03-15 Tourism studies often deal with complex mixes of external and local factors and the attitudes perceptions and actions of tourists themselves In seeking to understand individual elements of this mix or the results of interactions between them tourism authorities managers and researchers often collect quantitative data but until now the few existing guides to understanding quantitative data have been either very simple or very complicated This book provides a guide to dealing with real world data and goes beyond the methods usually covered in introductory textbooks The first part considers key issues associated with using well known methods to produce valid and reliable models of real world phenomena emphasizing issues in data selection approaches to factor and cluster analysis and mathematical modelling using regression methods including logistic regression and structural equation modelling The second part covers new approaches to modelling maximum likelihood estimation simulation and agent based modelling Each chapter includes extensive references to additional reading and an appendix summarises the software introduced in the book The book provides many practical examples of applications to tourism research considers practical issues associated with application of quantitative techniques and discusses common pitfalls and how to identify and remedy them The result is a guide to quantitative methods in tourism that demystifies both simple and apparently complex techniques and makes them more accessible to tourism researchers

Constructions of Literacy Elizabeth Birr Moje, David G. O'Brien, 2000-08-01 Constructions of Literacy explores and represents through a series of cases and commentaries how and why secondary school teachers and students use literacy in formal and informal learning settings As used in the context of this book secondary literacy refers to speaking listening reading writing and performing It also refers to how these processes or events are constructed negotiated and used for specific purposes by teachers and students as they engage in various classroom school and community practices and interactions The authors operate from a stance that literacy is socially culturally and historically constructed They recognize that there are many different perspectives on how that construction occurs some arguing for institutional and structural influences others suggesting that people have some degree of agency within the constraints imposed by larger structures A distinguishing feature of the volume is that the contributors explore and make explicit differing perspectives on literacy as a social construction The volume is built around case studies of secondary school teachers and students literacy practices inside and outside of schools The cases include diverse critical cultural feminist interpretive phenomenological and postmodern theoretical and epistemological perspectives and research methodologies making this one of the first collections of studies in secondary content area classrooms conducted from multiple perspectives It concludes with two Commentaries one by Donna Alvermann and one by David Bloome in which they discuss and critique the contributions made from the different perspectives and grapple with how they simultaneously illuminate and confuse issues in literacy theory research and practice Preservice and in service teachers school professionals and researchers in literacy education secondary education and curriculum theory will find this book stimulating and informative It will help them analyze the complexities of secondary literacy teaching and learning and examine their own understandings of literacy within their own literacy contexts
