Publication U.S. Department of the Army, United States. Dept. of the Army, 1940 When Conscience and Power Meet Eugene N. Zeigler, 2008 This is an inspirational account of a political maverick advocating the public good against overwhelming odds After more than a decade in the South Carolina legislature Eugene N Zeigler Jr made a name for himself in politics through his spirited campaign for the U S Senate in 1972 against incumbent Strom Thurmond and a subsequent candidacy in the state s 1974 Democratic gubernatorial primary Unsuccessful on both fronts Zeigler nonetheless distinguished himself as a man of passionate convictions in the value of public service In his memoir When Conscience and Power Meet Zeigler recounts these and other defining moments from a life spent pursuing the public good often against insurmountable opposition knowing that the only reward might be the satisfaction of a contest well fought A native of Florence South Carolina Zeigler represents a vanishing breed of public servant the classically educated progressive rising from modest small town roots and driven by a genuine sense of noblesse oblige to better his community state and country He has enriched his memoir with frequent ruminations on the events of his life the making of a humanistic scholar the role of duty in shaping character and the uncertainties of experience contrasted with the certainties of principle As a naval officer in World War II he served aboard four aircraft carriers in the Atlantic and Pacific theaters On return from combat Zeigler began his remarkable legal career in Florence He later served in the South Carolina House of Representatives in 1961 and 1962 and in the State Senate from 1967 to 1972 A champion of progressive social and cultural interests Zeigler organized the Big Brothers Association of the Pee Dee founded the Florence Fine Arts Council was elected president of the Florence Museum and served on the South Carolina Council of Arts and Humanities the South Carolina Commission on Human Affairs and the State Board of Corrections Throughout his long career Zeigler has frequently faced the frustration of being on the verge of high office or important reform yet ending up on the losing side or having played just a minor role in victory Undaunted by these near misses he takes satisfaction in the effort over the results Zeigler shuns the title politician seeing himself instead as an ombudsman or advocate for the public interest an approach more leaders might adopt Through his inspirational and exceptionally literate recounting of his persistent struggles to better the lives of all South Carolinians we gain an insider s perspective on contemporary Southern politics as well as a hearty endorsement of the value of staying true to one s convictions despite the odds
