

Skin: Introduction

Skin is a film about how crazy society can be towards the superficial differences between people. Set in the background of apartheid-South Africa, it is the story of Sandra Laing (Sami Gratch) and the way the colour of her skin decides how she is perceived in her world and how it limits what she can be and what she can do. Anthony Fabian's film is based on a real person, and manages to bring at the heart of the influence on an individual's sense of identity and belonging the explicit clash with the racist and Laing, describing her and those she knows closely with the poems of struggling film. Skin is a film that has clearly been meticulously and intelligently researched and produced.

As the film opens, we meet an excited Sandra getting ready for her first day of attending her exclusive new school. We see her parents are loving and proud towards their daughter and their son – all of which are clearly white children. Sandra is coloured; the parents did not know they had coloured ancestry in their past – however they bring her up as their beloved white daughter. They are proud to be white and expect their daughter to be treated with all the privileges of white people as they are her parents. It seems such an insignificant thing – the colour of one's skin yet it is the fundamental measuring stick of racism and discrimination across societies all over the world. The irony of the film is that Sandra's parent's supported apartheid, on the political and social level that protected black and white people from mixing, yet the love of apartheid coloured Sandra as "coloured" and she was rejected from the school they wanted her to attend.

Throughout the film, Sandra experiences prejudice and rejection, and through it all she learns to stand up for what she really is and embrace her own strong sense of identity and belonging.

About Anthony Fabian

Anthony Fabian is a San Francisco born and much-requested producer and director of documentaries and music programmes with his company Screen Films. Skin was his first feature film and it is essentially a biographic inspiration for him. Although born in San Francisco, Fabian was brought up in Mexico, France and the United Kingdom. He graduated from the UCLA Film and Television school, and he worked mostly from Britain, having been awarded many accolades and awards. His film Skin received more than 20 international movie prizes.

Anthony Fabian first heard about Sandra Laing's story in 2000 and felt moved and compelled to make her story into a film. At the time, Laing was living in poverty and further insult to the fact that she had suffered, yet her white family had prospered. On speaking with Sandra and although she indicated that he was the money from advances for the film and back by South Africa "When she was white", he was more comfortable and set up a small business. Making the film proved a thing and daunting process, especially given the many locations in South Africa that were used and the often challenging weather.
