Pentagon Report On Chinese Military:

China's Military Modernization Richard D. Fisher, Jr., 2008-09-30 China's rise to global economic and strategic eminence with the potential for achieving pre eminence in the greater Asian region is one of the defining characteristics of the post Cold War period This work offers a basic understanding of the military strategic basis and trajectory of a rising China provides background and outlines current and future issues concerning China's rise in strategic military influence The next decade may witness China's assertion of military or strategic pressure on Japan the Korean Peninsula India the South China Sea the Taiwan Strait Central Asia or even on behalf of future allies in Africa and Latin America While conflict is not a foregone conclusion as indicated by China's increasing participation in many benign international organizations it is a fact that China's leadership will pursue its interests as it sees them which may not always coincide with those of the United States its friends and allies Until now no single volume has existed that provides an authoritative comprehensive and concise description of China's evolving geo strategy or of how China is transforming its military to carry out this strategy Fisher examines how China's People's Liberation Army PLA remains critical to the existence of the Chinese Communist government and looks at China's political and military actions designed to protect its expanded strategic interests in both the Asia Pacific and Central to Near Asian regions Using open sources including over a decade of unique interview sources Fisher documents China's efforts to build a larger nuclear force that may soon be protected by missile defenses modern high technology systems for space air and naval forces and how China is now beginning to assemble naval air and ground forces for future power projection missions His work also examines how the United States and other governments simultaneously seek greater engagement with China on strategic concerns while hedging against its rising power Although China faces both internal and external constraints on its rise to global eminence it cannot be denied that China's government is pursuing a far reaching strategic agenda Public Statements of Robert M. Gates, Secretary of Defense, 2006-2007 Robert Michael Gates, 2007

Chinese Space Policy Roger Handberg, Zhen Li, 2006-11-29 This volume explains the beginnings and expansion of China's space program analyzing how China is now able to hold such ambitions and how the interaction between technology politics and economics has influenced the Chinese space program It opens by tracing out the earlier development of the space program and identifying the successes and problems that plagued this initial effort later focusing upon its development over the past decade and into the future As China is now able to reach into outer space with its machines and since 2003 with its humans the authors examine how this move from a non participant status to a state operating at the highest level of space activities has confirmed its potential place as the new economic and military superpower of the twenty first century They also demonstrate how recent successes mean that China is now confronted by an issue previously encountered by other space powers such as the United States and the former Soviet Union what is the value of the space program given its high costs and likelihood of dramatic failure Chinese Space Policy will be of great interest to students of space studies Chinese politics

Minimum Deterrence: Examining the Evidence Keith B. Payne,James Schlesinger,2016-04-14 The National Institute for Public Policy s new book Minimum Deterrence Examining the Evidence is the first of its kind Dr Keith Payne former Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger and an unparalleled bipartisan group of senior civilian and military experts critically examine eight basic assumptions of Minimum Deterrence against available evidence In general Minimum Deterrence does not fare well under the careful scrutiny Proponents of a Minimum Deterrent US nuclear force posture believe that anywhere from a handful to a few hundred nuclear weapons are adequate to deter reliably and predictably any enemy from attacking the United States now and in the future Because nuclear weapons are so destructive their thinking goes no foreign leader would dare challenge US capabilities The benefits advocates claim of reducing US nuclear weapons to the minimum level needed are better relations with Russia and China reinforcement of the arms control and Nonproliferation Treaty billions of defense dollars in savings and greater international stability on the way to nuclear zero As political pressure builds to pursue this vision of minimum US deterrence Minimum Deterrence Examining the Evidence stands as the seminal study to address the many claims of great benefit using available evidence This book was published as a special issue of Comparative Strategy

Chinese Naval Strategy in the 21st Century James R. Holmes,Toshi Yoshihara,2012-09-10 Alfred Thayer Mahan has been called America s nineteenth century evangelist of sea power and the intellectual father of the modern US Navy His theories have a timeless appeal and Chinese analysts now routinely invoke Mahan s writings exhorting their nation to build a powerful navy Economics is the prime motivation for maritime reorientation and securing the sea lanes that convey foreign energy supplies and other commodities now ranks near or at the top of China's list of military priorities. This book is the first systematic effort to test the interplay between Western military thought and Chinese strategic traditions vis-à-vis the nautical arena. It uncovers some universal axioms about how theories of sea power influence the behaviour of great powers and examines how Mahanian thought could shape China's encounters on the high seas. Empirical analysis adds a new dimension to the current debate over China's rise and its importance for international relations. The findings also clarify the possible implications of China's maritime rise for the United States and illuminate how the two powers can manage their bilateral interactions on the high seas. Chinese Naval Strategy in the 21st Century will be of much interest to students of naval history, Chinese politics and security studies.

Asia Eyes America Jonathan D. Pollack, 2007. Contains a collection of papers produced by participants U.S. and regional scholars and analysts at a conference Asia Eyes America held at the Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island in May 2006. What are the implications of Asia's longer term transformation for U.S. interests? How might change reconfigure American security requirements in the next decade and beyond? On what basis does the United States reaffirm yet redefine its enduring commitment to regional order? This volume is a collaborative effort involving prominent specialists on both sides of the Pacific. The book focuses on underlying attitudes toward American power and policy especially as viewed by strategic analysts within the region. Various contributors describe contradictory attitudes toward American power. Most states hope to deepen ties with the United States while avoiding comprehensive envelopment in U.S. strategy. There is a tension between the preference for continued American regional involvement while seeking to limit possibilities of highly intrusive U.S. policy interventions. Both considerations will continue to shape regional attitudes toward American power especially U.S. military power. Publisher's description.

Defence Planning and Uncertainty Stephan Frühling, 2014-04-24. How can countries decide what kind of military forces they need if threats are uncertain and history is full of strategic surprises? This is a question that is more pertinent than ever as countries across the Asia Pacific are faced with the military and economic rise of China. Uncertainty is inherent in defence planning but different types of uncertainty mean that countries need to approach decisions about military force structure in different ways. This book examines four different basic frameworks for defence planning and demonstrates how states can make decisions coherently about the structure and posture of their defence forces despite strategic uncertainty. It draws on case studies from the United States, Australia and New Zealand each of which developed key concepts for their particular circumstances and risk perception in Asia. Success as well as failure in developing coherent defence planning frameworks holds lessons for the United States and other countries as they consider how best to structure their military forces for the uncertain challenges of the future.

India's National Security Satish Kumar, 2016-10-04. This fifteenth volume of India's National Security Annual Review undertakes an incisive analysis of India's endeavours to maximise its gains with respect to its strategic partners. The volume also focuses on the new dynamism that India has injected in its relations with countries in the Middle East and the Asia Pacific India's threat perceptions in its extended security zone critical aspects of its strategic preparedness and complex issues regarding its internal security have been thoroughly examined
