

Our last line of defence: The SANDEF mandate, activities and key functionalities

The SANDEF is directly answerable to the Minister of Defence, and acts independently of the Intelligence and Security Committee, military's own management structure and South African National Defence Force's own command and control system. It acts independently along its own administrative arrangements. It is a Centre of Excellence for the South African Defence Force, prepared to support and assist the defence community.

What SANDEF's mandate is to...

- Enhanced regional cooperation, by particularly to assist countries in the region to develop their own security threat intelligence that complements the capability of South Africa.

- Intelligence Services - to provide for the national and regional defence threat intelligence for support of the defence by the intelligence.
- Support the Project of South Africa - to provide support for South Africa's project of a new generation of weapons and equipment and supporting other threat to the South African defence.

It also refers to the mandate of SANDEF:

What does SANDEF do in the Intelligence and Security Committee, the National Intelligence Project, Intelligence Service and the Strategic Defence Plan?

It has many other SANDEF's objectives:

What employment of the SANDEF is government's Intelligence, with support from the state.

What is the SANDEF's mandate?
 SANDEF is the only South African defence intelligence and security service that is not a part of the South African National Defence Force.

What is the SANDEF's mandate? It is to provide for the national and regional defence threat intelligence for support of the defence by the intelligence.

What is the SANDEF's mandate? It is to provide for the national and regional defence threat intelligence for support of the defence by the intelligence.
