Powell, 2012-01-09 Never in its long history has the South provided an entirely comfortable home for the intellectual In this thought provoking contribution to the field of southern studies Tara Powell considers the evolving ways that major post World War II southern writers have portrayed intellectuals from Flannery O Connor s ironic view of interleckchuls to Gail Godwin s southerners striving to feel at home in the academic world Although Walker Percy like his fellow Catholic writer O Connor explicitly rejected the intellectual label for himself he nonetheless introduced the modern novel of ideas to southern letters Powell shows by placing sympathetic non caricatured intellectuals at the center of his influential works North Carolinians Doris Betts and her student Tim McLaurin made their living teaching literature and creative writing in academia and Betts s fiction often includes dislocated academics while McLaurin s superb memoirs often funny frequently point up the limitations of the mind as opposed to the heart and the spirit Examining works by Ernest Gaines Alice Walker and Randall Kenan Powell traces the evolution of the black American literacy narrative from a stress on the post Emancipation conviction which saw formal education as an essential means of resisting oppression to the growing suspicion in the post civil rights era of literacy acts that may estrange educated blacks from the larger black community Powell concludes with Godwin who embraces university life in her fiction as she explores what it means to be a southern female intellectual in the modern world a world in which all those markers inscribe isolation

The Location of Experience Adela Pinch, 2024-10-15 We tend to feel that works of fiction give us special access to lived experience But how do novels cultivate that feeling Where exactly does experience reside The Location of Experience argues that paradoxically novels create experience for us not by bringing reality up close but by engineering environments in which we feel constrained from acting By excavating the history of the rise of experience as an important category of Victorian intellectual life this book reveals how experience was surprisingly tied to emotions of remorse and regret for some of the era s great women novelists the Bront s George Eliot Margaret Oliphant and Elizabeth Gaskell It shows how these writers passed ideas about experience and experiences themselves among each other Drawing on intellectual history psychology and moral philosophy The Location of Experience shows that through manipulating the psychological dimensions of fiction s formal features Victorian women novelists produced a philosophical account of experience that rivaled and complemented that of the male philosophers of the period
