Aircraft Accident Report United States. National Transportation Safety Board, 2000 On August 6 1997 about 0142 26 Guam local time Korean Air flight 801 a Boeing 747 3B5B 747 300 Korean registration 11L7468 operated by Korean Air Company Ltd crashed at Nimitz Hill Guam Flight 801 departed from Kimpo International Airport Seoul Korea with 2 pilots 1 flight engineer 14 flight attendants and 237 passengers on board The airplane had been cleared to land on runway 6 Left at A B Won Guam International Airport Agana Guam and crashed into high terrain about 3 miles southwest of the airport Of the 254 persons on board 228 were killed and 23 passengers and 3 flight attendants survived the accident with serious injuries The airplane was destroyed by impact forces and a postcrash fire Flight 801 was operating in U S airspace as a regularly scheduled international passenger service flight under the Convention on International Civil Aviation and the provisions of 14 Code of Federal Regulations Part 129 and was on an instrument flight rules flight plan The National Transportation Safety Board determines that the probable cause of the Korean Air flight 801 accident was the captain's failure to adequately brief and execute the nonprecision approach and the first officer's and flight engineer's failure to effectively monitor and cross check the captain's execution of the approach. Contributing to these failures were the captain's fatigue and Korean Air's inadequate flight crew training. Contributing to the accident was the Federal Aviation Administration's FAA intentional inhibition of the minimum safe altitude warning system MSAW at Guam and the agency's failure to adequately manage the system. The safety issues in this report focus on flight crew performance, approach procedures and pilot training, air traffic control including controller performance and the intentional inhibition of the MSAW system at Guam.

Manual of Simulation in Healthcare Richard H. Riley, 2008 Medical simulation is a relatively new science that is achieving respectability among healthcare educators worldwide. Simulation and skills centres have become established to integrate simulation into mainstream education in all medical, nursing and paramedical fields. Borrowing from the experience and methodologies of industries that are using simulation, medical educators are grappling with the problem of rapidly acquiring the skills and techniques required to implement simulation programmes into established curricula. This book assists both novice and experienced workers in the field to learn from established practitioners in medical simulation. Simulation has been used to enhance the educational experience in a diverse range of fields; therefore a wide variety of disciplines are represented. The book begins with a section on the logistics of establishing a simulation and skills centre and the inherent problems with funding, equipment, staffing and course development and promotion. Section two deals with simulators and related training devices that are required to equip a stand alone or institution based centre. The features, strengths and weaknesses of training devices are presented to help the reader find the appropriate simulator to fulfil their training requirements. There is a guide to producing scenarios and medical props that can enhance the training experience. The third section covers adult education and it reviews the steps required to develop courses that comply with best practice in medical education. Teaching skills facilitating problem based learning groups and debriefing techniques are especially important to multidisciplinary skills centres that find themselves becoming a centre for medical education. The manual concludes with guides for the major specialties that use simulation including military, paediatrics, CPR and medical response teams, obstetrics and anaesthesia.
