Handbook of Geriatric Care Management Cathy Jo Cress, 2015-10-26 Handbook of Geriatric Care Management Fourth Edition is a comprehensive and practical guide for care managers that addresses the multiple needs of aging adults and their families. An ideal teaching tool, it guides students and professionals along the journey of becoming a successful care manager. New to this edition are two new chapters on working with older veterans and helping clients with depression. Completely updated and revised, the Fourth Edition provides updated ethics and standards, a focus on credentialing and certification, numerous case studies, sample forms and letters, and tips for building and growing a care manager business. Smart Sensors and Sensing Technology Gourab Sen Gupta, 2008-07-01 Technological advancements in recent years have enabled the development of tiny, cheap, disposable, and self-contained battery-powered computers known as sensor nodes or motes, which can accept input from an attached sensor, process this input, and transmit the results wirelessly to some interested device. When a number of these nodes work together, conceivably up to hundreds of thousands, a Wireless Sensor Network (WSN) is formed. Research in the area of wireless sensor networks has become increasingly widespread in recent years, partly due to their wide range of potential uses and also partly due to the fact that the technology enabling such networks is now widely available from many different suppliers, such as Crossbow MoteIV, Intel, and SUN Java-based motes. These wireless sensor networks have the potential to allow a level of integration between computers and the physical world that to date has been virtually impossible. The uses for such networks are almost limitless and include such diverse applications as a counter-sniper system for urban warfare, 1) tracking the path of a forest fire, 2) determining the structural stability of a building after an earthquake, 3) tracking people or objects inside a building, 4) etc. Assistive Technology from Adapted Equipment to Inclusive Environments Pier Luigi Emiliani, L. Burzagli, 2009 The concept of assistive technology is moving away from adopting the most appropriate devices to overcome the limitations of users to the designing and setting up of total environments in which people can live, supported by suitable services and additional support devices integrated within the environment. These two perspectives are deeply intertwined, both from technological and social points of view, and the relationship between them currently represents the primary challenge for the field of assistive technology. This publication covers the proceedings of the 10th European Conference of the Association for the Advancement of Assistive Technology in Europe (AAATE), the organization which stimulates the advancement of assistive technology for the benefit of people with disabilities, including elderly people. This conference seeks to bridge the gap between these two complementary approaches, providing an opportunity to clarify differences and common points and to better define future direction. This publication is a significant contribution to the advancement of inclusion for people living with a disability everywhere. Handbook of Geriatric Care Management Cathy Cress, 2011-03-30 A comprehensive guide for Geriatric Care Managers (GCMs) to help define duties and procedures while providing guidelines for setting up a geriatric care practice from publisher description.

Essential Lessons for the Success of Telehomecare Anthony P. Glascock,David M. Kutzik,2012 The technology underpinning the various types of Telehomecare available has been current for more than a decade and the time is right for an evaluation of both the technology and the effectiveness of Telehomecare as a system which contributes to the delivery of care within the home The field is complex encompassing multiple applications which monitor things such as task oriented behavior lifestyle vital signs environmental extremes such as carbon monoxide levels and passive personal emergency response systems All of these applications are based upon the collection of data within the home by a device which translates that data into information and transmits it to an external location prompting some type of action if necessary This book brings together the views and experience of a wide variety of contributors involved in the research and application of Telehomecare It is divided into two sections containing contributions from the United States the United Kingdom and the Netherlands Each section comprises chapters written from three different perspectives research based business and the implementation of care The authors include academic researchers policy experts individuals with direct business experience and care providers from each of the three countries The book reflects on where Telehomecare is today and speculates as to what the future might hold for the field It will be of interest to all those involved in caring for people in their own homes

Consumers, Corporations and Public Health John A. Quelch,2016 The public health footprint associated with corporate behavior has come under increased scrutiny in the last decade with an increased expectation that private profit not come at the expense of consumer welfare Consumers Corporations and Public Health assembles 17 case studies at the intersection of business and public health to illustrate how each side can inform and benefit the other Through contemporary examples from a variety of industries and geographies this collection provides students with an appreciation for the importance of consumer empowerment and consumer behavior in shaping both health and corporate outcomes
