The Materiality of Exhibition Photography in the Modernist Era Laurie Taylor, 2020-12-30 This book challenges the status quo of the materiality of exhibited photographs by considering examples from the early to mid twentieth century when photography's place in the museum was not only continually questioned but also continually redefined By taking this historical approach Laurie Taylor demonstrates the ways in which materiality as opposed to image was used to privilege the exhibited photograph as either an artwork or as non art information Consequently the exhibited photograph is revealed like its vernacular cousins to be a social object whose material form far from being supplemental is instead integral and essential to the generation of meaning The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history history of photography theory of photography curatorial studies and museum studies

Evidence and the Archive Katherine Biber,Trish Luker,2018-09-03 This collection explores the stakes risks and opportunities invoked in opening and exploring law's archive and re-examining law's evidence. It draws together work exploring how evidence is used or misused during the legal process and re-used after the law's work has concluded by engaging with ethical, aesthetic or emotional dimensions of using law's evidence. Within socio-legal discourse, the move towards open justice has emerged concurrently with a much broader cultural sensibility, one that has been called the archival turn. Ann Laura Stoler, the archival impulse, Hal Foster and archive fever, Jacques Derrida. Whilst these terms do not describe exactly the same phenomena, they collectively acknowledge the process by which we create a fetish of the stored document. The archive facilitates our material confrontation with history, historicity, order, linearity, time and bureaucracy. For lawyers, artists, journalists, publishers, curators and scholars, the document in the archive has the attributes of authenticity, contemporaneity and the unique tangibility of a real moment captured in material form. These attributes form the basis for the strict interpretive limits imposed by the rules of evidence and procedure. These rules do not contain the other attributes of the archival document: those that make it irresistible as the basis for creative work, beauty, violence, surprise, shame, volume and the promise that it contains a tantalising secret. This book was previously published as a special issue of Australian Feminist Law Journal.

Visualising China in Southern Africa Juliette Leeb-du Toit, Ruth Simbao, Ross Anthony, Rui Assubuji, Ying Cheng, Malcolm Corrigan, Romain Dittgen, Esther Esmyol, Philip Harrison, Patricia Hayes, Binjun Hu, T Tu Huynh, Nicola Kritzing, Mark Lewis, Khangelani Moyo, Stary Mwaba, Marcus Neustetter, Kristin NG-Yang, Gemma Rodrigues, Shuo Wang, Yan Yang, Lifang Zhang, 2023-03-01. China and Africa have long shared a history of allegiance and contact points through global political forces from the time of colonialism and the Cold War. With China's rise as the new superpower, its presence in Africa has expanded, leading to significant economic, geopolitical and cultural shifts. While issues such as trade, aid and development have received much attention, Chinese and African encounters through the lens of the visual arts and material culture is a neglected field. Visualising China in Southern Africa: Biography, Circulation, Transgression is a ground-breaking volume that addresses this deficit through engaging with the work of contemporary African and Chinese artists while analysing broader material production that prefigures the current relationship. The essays are wide-ranging in their analysis of ceramics, photography, painting, etching, sculpture, film, performance, postcards, stamps, installations, political posters, cartoons and architecture. Visualising China in Southern Africa confines its focus to southern Africa, yet even within this region, the context is complex. Ethnicity and nationalism, the lingering influence of Cold War allegiances and colonial configurations all continue to play a role. The various visual cultures discussed in this volume emphasise the commonality of these categories but also point towards other shared histories that transcend the nation-state category. The collection includes scholarly chapters, photo-essays, interviews and artists' personal accounts, organised around four themes: material flows, orientations and transgressions, spatial imaginaries and biographies. The artists, photographers, filmmakers, curators and collectors in this volume include Stary Mwaba, Hua Jiming, Anawana Haloba, Gerald Machona, Nobukho Nqaba, Marcus
