My belief about myself as a learner when I entered the class was a positive one. I attended a college prep school for high school and went to Oregon State University last year. I had plenty of practice with different learning techniques and found what works well for me. I believe I'm more of a visual learner than an auditory learner. It is easier to see a powerpoint and retain the knowledge then listen to a lecture and have the same retention. Entering the class I thought I liked working in groups more than working individually on projects, but that has since changed. I think it is more beneficial to me to work alone because I can get more done. When I entered the class I believed that reading the material closer to the due date was a better idea because I may not remember what I had read if I didn't.

What I have discovered about myself, as a learner over the term is vast. I learned that I can read the material way in advance and just briefly skim over the text and remember just about everything, were as I thought reading closer was more beneficial. I also learned that working in groups really isn't my specialty. I prefer working by myself because I'm able to get a lot more done and not have to worry about other people forgetting their part of the project. I don't like having to worry about other people not following through. I also learned that looking at the daily record in advanced helped me

The Rhetoric of Reason James Crosswhite, 2012-11 Responding to skeptics within higher education and critics without James Crosswhite argues powerfully that the core of a college education should be learning to write a reasoned argument A trained philosopher and director of a university wide composition program Crosswhite challenges his readers teachers of writing and communication philosophers critical theorists and educational administrators to reestablish the traditional role of rhetoric in education To those who have lost faith in the abilities of people to reach reasoned mutual agreements and to others who have attacked the right or wrong model of formal logic this book offers the reminder that the rhetorical tradition has always viewed argumentation as a dialogue a response to changing situations an exchange of persuading listening and understanding Crosswhite s aim is to give new purpose to writing instruction and to students writing to reinvest both with the deep ethical interests of the rhetorical tradition In laying out the elements of argumentation for example he shows that claiming questioning and giving reasons are not simple elements of formal logic but communicative acts with complicated ethical features Students must learn not only how to construct an argument but the purposes responsibilities and consequences of engaging in one Crosswhite supports his aims through a rhetorical reconstruction of reason offering new interpretations of Plato and Aristotle and of the concepts of reflection and dialogue from early modernity through Hegel to Gadamer And in his conclusion he ties these theoretical and historical underpinnings to current problems of higher education the definition of the liberal arts and especially the teaching of written communication handbook will assist beginning and experienced teachers by helping them build on their ability to think and act reflectively in the classroom. The book focuses on the following three areas: planning, delivering instruction to a diverse student body, and managing and disciplining in today's classrooms. Features: Useful lists, points, and ideas for self-direction on reflective teaching in the big three areas; Conversational style information with a touch of humor and metaphor from the world of sports; Real journal entries from pre-service and on-the-job teachers; Formats and graphics; A glossary providing vocabulary on reflective practices; Eight useful appendices to assist reflective teaching and thinking. Handbook for Teaching Reflectively in Grades K-12 will provide the novice and expert educator in teaching a legitimate way of approaching their work through a reflective teaching model. This model will assist the novice teacher in developing their own reflective model while assisting the experienced teacher in modifying or adding to their present best practice. Integrating Writing Strategies in EFL/ESL University Contexts Jennifer Lynn Craig, 2012. Clearly explaining writing across the curriculum, WAC pedagogy for English language teachers in university settings, this book offers an accessible guide to integrating writing and speaking tasks across the curriculum and in disciplinary courses. Teachers will find this book useful because its direct practical advice can be easily incorporated in their classrooms to help their students develop advanced disciplinary English skills in writing, oral presentation, and graphical presentation. Enhancing its usefulness and relevance, each chapter includes coverage of the use of technology for teaching and learning, ways in which teachers can effectively and efficiently assess writing and speaking, and vignettes or examples to illustrate writing strategies or assignments in different contexts. Pulling together the key features of writing across the curriculum in one volume, this book is an efficient resource for busy EFL/ESL teachers worldwide.

Handbook for Teaching Reflectively in Grades K-12 William Reed Martin,Jason J. Majesky,Kay Eckler,2003 This useful

Futuristic and Linguistic Perspectives on Teaching Writing to Second Language Students Hancı-Azizoglu, Eda Başak, Kavaklı, Nurdan, 2020-12-11.
