

ESSAY ABOUT MYSELF EXAMPLE

I am Charles Langley and I want to be admitted in the Physics program.

I can't wait to be in college. College is fun according to my brother who attended XXX University. I want to attend XXX University because of him. It seems that college is fun every time I listen to my brother's story about college. He is my inspiration because he shows me that I can be whoever I want and supports me no matter what. I am happy every time he is around. I do my best in class so that I'll be admitted to college to be with my brother because he's so cool. I want to experience fun too that is why I want to be admitted to the Physics program of this university.

I am very interested in Physics since high school and even attended science fairs. My grades are okay but I wish to improve it in the university. My goal is to be a physicist and to impart my knowledge of other people. I think I am qualified to be admitted to the program so please consider my application.

If you want to know about my accomplishments, here it is. I am an athlete and my team participated in the State championships last year. I am also a part of my high school's performing arts club and I participated in a lot of plays. My brother would be very happy if I can get in.

You Can Write offers a perspective on essay writing that spotlights a writer's uniqueness. Resisting the perception that personal and academic writing are at odds with one another, it treats the impulse to write personally as potential fuel for a variety of writing purposes. The book encourages students to think like academics pursuing their enthusiasms, trusting their ideas and questioning their conclusions by leading them through three main writing assignments: a personal essay, an essay based on texts, and a research essay. Each chapter offers exercises and strategies for various stages in the pre-writing, drafting, and revision processes. Freewriting, extensive attention to planning, devising a structure and order of ideas that both promote and reflect engagement with a topic, developing rhetorical awareness and knowledge of conventions, and an advocacy for expressive, socially responsible writing are all central elements of the text's instruction. By acknowledging the emotions inherent in the writing process, many of which can muddle thinking ("I don't want anyone to see this," "what if I make mistakes," "what if the writing isn't good," "I don't want to be critiqued," etc.), Papoulis helps beginning college writers to navigate the psychological as well as the technical roadblocks that can get in the way of their best personal and academic writing.

Student Writing Theresa M. Lillis, 2002-01-04 Student Writing presents an accessible and thought-provoking study of academic writing practices. Informed by composition research from the US and academic literacies studies from the UK, the book challenges current official discourse on writing as a skill. Lillis argues for an approach which sees student writing as social practice. The book draws extensively on a three-year study with ten non-traditional students in higher education and their experience of academic writing. Using case study material, including literacy history interviews, extended discussions with students about their writing of discipline-specific essays, and extracts from essays, Lillis identifies the following as three significant dimensions to academic writing: Access to higher education and to its language and literacy; representational resources; Regulation of meaning-making in academic writing; Desire for participation in higher education and for choices over ways of meaning in academic writing. Student Writing access regulation desire raises questions about why academics write as they do, who benefits from such writing, which meanings are valued, and how, on what terms, outsiders get to be insiders and at what costs.
