

HOW TO WRITE A CONCEPT PAPER?

In writing a concept paper, we should create:

1. An impactful title: First we need to consider that the title must be necessarily informative, leaving the readers a lasting impression. It should reflect the purpose and significance of the study. The title should not be too lengthy (ideal: within 15 words). The title may possibly be in the form of a question.
2. A clear mission statement: In a few sentences, the study objective(s) or research question should be stated. It is given or even discussed a while ago that the main objective or purpose of a concept paper is to convince the readers, that the proposed project is worth executing, it must convey the uniqueness and research rationale in a convincing manner.
3. A brief yet effective overview: It should present a survey of the problem, supported by a preliminary literature review of the research topic. However, the review does not need to be too detailed. It should provide a summary of what is already known about the topic and an explanation of what knowledge gaps the research is expected to fill or simply what are still the things that need to be recognized by the readers. Any contradictory theories may also be indicated.
4. An outline of the proposed methods: The methods that the researcher plans to use to answer the research question should be described. This section would cover ethical issues (if applicable), experimental materials and methods, the type of data to be collected, and the different methods by which the data will be collected and analyzed or interpreted. The estimated time to achieve different research goals should also be indicated.
5. A statement of the expected implications: A concept paper would be incomplete without a concise section on short-term and long-term impacts of the research, potential applications, impact on society and policies, and any other future visions. Know how to write a statement of the problem in a step-by-step way.

TIPS IN WRITING A CONCEPT PAPER:

1. Keep the reader in mind: If the concept paper targets experts in the field or potential collaborators/partners, it should be tailored accordingly, it can contain technical language. But if the audience comprises potential sponsors/funders, the concept paper should be restructured or simplified, keeping in mind their priorities and requirements. Their version should contain minimal jargon and be easily digestible by non-specialists.
