Sheet of "white paper" and "newsprint"

Pencils

Checklist (in back)

200 "white" paper circles (20 white circles checked off to be painted)

Procedure:

In this lab, you will paint circles from predictions. You will have four colors available and compare their utility for survival in certain environments. Adaptation is when an organism becomes better suited to its environment. Insects and Moths are a prime example for observing this concept. Off is populations specifically by becoming camouflaged in response to predators. One-color paint can help insects not notice themself. By predicting what the outcome will be, we can see if our predictions were correct. About half the peppered moths in the area where light-colored will be eaten sooner. At the industrial revolution, unpainted, the tree trunks became covered with soot and turned dark. Once it was off 40 years, the dark variety of the peppered moth became more prevalent.
