

Mobility Estimation

The Relevance of Mobility Estimation

- In Network Modeling and Network Validation
 - Most of the models we use in simulators and testbeds are not truly accurate
 - A more recent wave (social models [9]) seem to be closer to user interaction, but lack of validation prevents from globally adopting these models, and from adding them in real network environments
- In Machine-to-Machine communication
 - Adequate mobility estimation assists in improving proximity algorithms
- In Distributed and Intelligent Information Systems (e.g. Traffic)
 - Assists in adequately providing cooperative behavior

Simulators Derailed Technology Compatibility And Social Systems:

Simulators Derailed: Technology Compatibility and Social Systems Gregory Tibbits, 2014-11-03 Simulator technology for training is well received and much used in many industries particularly the aviation industry However in the rail industry it is not well accepted by its primary users train drivers and is not used to its full potential A theoretical framework to analyse culture originally proposed by Pierre Bourdieu and in particular his concepts of capital field and habitus are used to explain the compatibility and the use of the simulator The main finding of this study is that the rail industry is incompatible with simulator technology for training In particular the value and attitudes associated with training can explain much of the observed use and acceptance of simulator technology A tool called the Capital x Capital y CxCy culture map was developed to assist in describing and predicting technological compatibility This has applications across industrial settings
