Me and the Helpful Hurricane (Sweet, Small Town Romantic Comedy in Good Grief, Idaho Book 3)

Jessie Gussman, 2021-03-16 Leah It took me a while most of my life in fact to decide that my hometown of Good Grief Idaho is the best place in the world to live But I have and I love it except for one thing My boss Okay so the man is good at his job we just have a tendency to disagree on how much activity the seniors at our assisted living center want to have I personally think they'd love to go on a whitewater rafting trip The Boss nixed that idea before my words landed in the space between his ears He sees my mouth moving and just says no I think he grew up in the olden days and took Nancy Reagan's slogan to heart And just for the record my boss is smart very smart and handsome and funny and totally NOT my type But we need to convince seniors that retiring in Good Grief Idaho is a great idea and I have plans that will make that happen if I can only get my boss to go along with them With that in mind I'm embarking on a new mission remembering that honey catches more flies than vinegar AND honey tends to make an already bad relationship even more awkward when worn topically over two human bodies that happen to be tied together that one is going down as an experience I'd rather not have shared with my boss Doug What can I say She's a hurricane Also I think we might have broken some kind of workplace harassment rules when after being tied up and slathered with honey I kissed her But a man can only take so much I guess it says something about the kiss when I have to admit I bought another gallon of honey and borrowed my brother's handcuffs all mostly in the name of saving
