Lentz,1997 Since Hopalong Cassidy and the Lone Ranger blazed their first trails on television in 1949 Westerns have been the genre of choice for 180 series Some Gunsmoke Bonanza and Maverick for example were classics others such as 26 Men and Shotgun Slade were quickly forgotten From Adventures of Briscoe County through Zorro and Son this comprehensive reference work covers all 180 Western series Each entry opens with a listing of the broadcast history of the series including original network day and time This is followed by a listing of the regular cast members and a brief premise of the series The individual episodes are then covered with the title original air date leading guest stars and a brief synopsis given An exhaustive index completes the work Time in Television Narrative Melissa Ames,2012-08 This collection analyzes twenty first century American television programs that rely upon temporal and narrative experimentation These shows play with time slowing it down to unfold the narrative through time retardation and compression They disrupt the chronological flow of time itself using flashbacks and insisting that viewers be able to situate themselves in both the present and the past narrative threads Although temporal play has existed on the small screen prior to the new millennium never before has narrative time been so freely adapted in mainstream television The essayists offer explanations for not only the frequency of time play in contemporary programming but the implications of its sometimes disorienting presence Drawing upon the fields of cultural studies television scholarship and literary studies as well as overarching theories concerning postmodernity and narratology Time in Television Narrative offers some critical suggestions The increasing number of television programs concerned with time may stem from any and all of the following recent scientific approaches to quantum physics and temporality new conceptions of history and posthistory or trends in late capitalistic production and consumption in the new culture of instantaneity or in the recent trauma culture amplified after the September 11 attacks In short these televisual time experiments may very well be an aesthetic response to the climate from which they derive These essays analyze both ends of this continuum and also attend to another crucial variable the television viewer watching this new temporal play The Ladies' Home Journal ,1907
