Question

1. The following information is available for the year 2010:

- Sales: 100,000 units
- Variable costs: 40,000 units
- Fixed costs: 20,000 units
- Selling price: $10 per unit
- Variable cost per unit: $4
- Fixed cost per unit: $2

Calculate the break-even point in units and in dollars.

Answer

The break-even point is the point at which total revenue equals total costs. It is the point at which the company neither makes a profit nor a loss.

Break-even point in units = Fixed costs / (Selling price - Variable cost per unit)

Break-even point in dollars = Break-even point in units × Selling price

Break-even point in units = 20,000 / ($10 - $4) = 3,333 units

Break-even point in dollars = 3,333 units × $10 = $33,333

At the break-even point, the company is neither making a profit nor a loss. Any sales above the break-even point will result in a profit, and any sales below the break-even point will result in a loss.

3. Develop a plan. A plan of action should be developed to address the problem. This involves identifying the steps that need to be taken and the resources that will be required.
4. Implement the plan. The plan should be implemented, and the results should be monitored. This involves carrying out the steps that have been identified in the plan.
5. Evaluate the results. Once the plan has been implemented, the results should be evaluated. This involves comparing the results with the objectives and identifying any areas for improvement.

■ The 1997-1998 National Survey
The 1997-1998 National Survey of the Health and Safety of Teachers was the first national survey of teachers' health and safety in the United States. The survey was conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in collaboration with the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH). The survey was designed to collect data on the health and safety of teachers in the United States, including information on their work environment, health status, and safety practices. The survey was conducted in two waves, with the first wave in 1997 and the second wave in 1998. The survey included a questionnaire for teachers and a questionnaire for school administrators. The survey was conducted in 1,000 schools across the United States. The survey was the largest and most comprehensive survey of teachers' health and safety in the United States to date.

THEORY The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on the strength and muscle mass of the lower extremities in healthy, sedentary, middle-aged men. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a resistance training group (RT) or a control group (CON). The RT group performed a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program, while the CON group performed no resistance training. The subjects were then tested for strength and muscle mass at baseline and at the end of the 12-week program. The results showed that the RT group had significantly greater increases in strength and muscle mass compared to the CON group.
