Human Instinct Lord Robert Winston, 2011-05-31 From caveman to modern man Few people doubt that humans are descended from the apes fewer still consider let alone accept the psychological implications But in truth man not only looks moves and breathes like an ape he also thinks like one Sexual drive survival competition aggression all of our impulses are driven by our human instincts They explain why a happily married man will fantasize about the pretty slim young woman sitting across from him in the tube and why thousands of people spend their week entirely focused on whether their team will win their next crucial match But how well do our instincts equip us for the twenty first century Do they help or hinder us as we deal with large anonymous cities stressful careers relationships and the battle of the sexes In this fascinating book Robert Winston takes us on a journey deep into the human mind Along the way he takes a very personal look at the relationship between science and religion and explores those very instincts that make us human

The Balance of Nature and Human Impact Klaus Rohde, 2013-02-14 It is clear that nature is undergoing rapid changes as a result of human activities such as industry agriculture travel fisheries and urbanisation What effects do these activities have Are they disturbing equilibria in ecological populations and communities thus upsetting the balance of nature or are they enhancing naturally occurring disequilibria perhaps with even worse consequences It is often argued that large scale fluctuations in climate and sea levels have occurred over and over again in the geological past long before human activities could possibly have had any impact and that human effects are very small compared to those that occur naturally Should we conclude that human activity cannot significantly affect the environment or are these naturally occurring fluctuations actually being dangerously enhanced by humans This book examines these questions first by providing evidence for equilibrium and non equilibrium conditions in relatively undisturbed ecosystems and second by examining human induced effects

Migration in Africa Michiel de Haas, Ewout Frankema, 2022-03-30 This book introduces readers to the age of intra African migration a period from the mid 19th century onward in which the center of gravity of African migration moved decisively inward Most books tend to zoom in on Africa's external migration during the earlier intercontinental slave trades and the more recent outmigration to the Global North but this book argues that migration within the continent has been far more central to the lives of Africans over the course of the last two centuries The book demonstrates that only by taking a broad historical and continent wide perspective can we understand the distinctions between the more immediate drivers of migration and deeper patterns of change over time During the 19th century Africa's external slave trades gradually declined whilst Africa's expanding commodity export sectors drew in domestic labor This led to an era of heightened mobility within the region marked by rapidly rising and vanishing migratory flows increasingly diversified landscapes of migration systems and profound long term shifts in the wider patterns of migration This era of inward focused mobility reduced with a resurgence of outmigration after 1960 when Africans became more deliberate in search of extra continental destinations with new diaspora communities emerging specifically in the Global North Broad ranging in its temporal spatial and thematic coverage this book provides students and researchers with the perfect introduction to age of intra African migration
