Holmes, Bani Mallick, Bin Yu, 2013-11-11 Researchers in many disciplines face the formidable task of analyzing massive amounts of high dimensional and highly structured data This is due in part to recent advances in data collection and computing technologies As a result fundamental statistical research is being undertaken in a variety of different fields Driven by the complexity of these new problems and fueled by the explosion of available computer power

Resting state brain activity: Implications for systems neuroscience Vinod Menon,Lucina Q. Uddin, Research on resting state brain activity using fMRI offers a novel approach for understanding brain organization at the systems level Resting state fMRI examines spatial synchronization of intrinsic fluctuations in blood oxygenation level dependent BOLD signals arising from neuronal and synaptic activity that is present in the absence of overt cognitive information processing Since the discovery of coherent spontaneous fluctuations within the somatomotor system Biswal et al 1995 a growing number of studies have shown that many of the brain areas engaged during various cognitive tasks also form coherent large scale brain networks that can be readily identified using resting state fMRI These studies are beginning to provide new insights into the functional architecture of the human brain This Research Topic will synthesize current knowledge about resting state brain activity and discuss their implications for understanding brain function and dysfunction from a systems neuroscience perspective This topic will also provide perspectives on important conceptual and methodological questions that the field needs to address in the next years In addition to invited reviews and perspectives we solicit research articles on theoretical experimental and clinical questions related to the nature origins and functions of resting state brain activity

Detection and Estimation of Working Memory States and Cognitive Functions Based on Neurophysiological Measures Felix Putze,Christian Mühl,Fabien Lotte,Stephen Fairclough,Christian Herff,2019-02-05 Executive cognitive functions like working memory determine the success or failure of a wide variety of different cognitive tasks such as problem solving navigation or planning Estimation of constructs like working memory load or memory capacity from neurophysiological or psychophysiological signals would enable adaptive systems to respond to cognitive states experienced by an operator and trigger responses designed to support task performance e g by simplifying the exercises of a tutor system when the subject is overloaded or by shutting down distractions from the mobile phone The determination of cognitive states like working memory load is also useful for automated testing assessment or for usability evaluation While there exists a large body of research work on neural and physiological correlates of cognitive functions like working memory activity fewer publications deal with the application of this research with respect to single trial detection and real time estimation of cognitive functions in complex realistic scenarios Single trial classifiers based on brain activity measurements such as electroencephalography functional near infrared spectroscopy physiological signals or eye tracking have the potential to classify affective or cognitive states based upon short segments of data For this purpose signal processing and machine learning techniques need to be developed and transferred to real world user interfaces The goal of this Frontiers Research Topic was to advance the State of the Art in signal based modeling of cognitive processes We were especially interested in research towards more complex and realistic study designs for example collecting data in the wild or investigating the interaction between different cognitive processes or signal modalities Bringing together many contributions in one format allowed us to look at the state of convergence or diversity regarding concepts methods and paradigms Census of India, 1981 ,1984
