Exploring Coherence in English Language Arts Instructional Systems in the Common Core Era Morgan Polikoff,2020 Coherence among components of an instructional system is key to changing teachers instructional practices in standards based reforms Coherence involves working across traditional silos or system components e g curriculum professional learning assessment to integrate components to avoid fragmentation of experiences for educators and students. The authors set out to understand how districts and schools are activating various policy levers i.e. instructional components to drive instructional coherence and student learning in English language arts ELA in the Common Core era. The authors investigate the coherence of teachers' instructional systems using survey data from state representative samples of teachers and smaller samples of district leaders across three states: Louisiana, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island. Specifically, in spring 2019, the authors asked state representative samples of teachers in these states about the extent to which their curricula, assessments, and other components of their instructional systems cohered with one another and aligned with state standards. The authors examine the alignment of curriculum to standards as well as the extent to which four components of instructional systems hypothesized as key to supporting instructional coherence are aligned to standards or the curriculum: curriculum-related resources (e.g., lesson plans, pacing guides), professional development, teacher evaluation, and student assessments. Using these findings, the authors build a measure of the overall extent of coherence in teachers' ELA instructional systems.

Teach Yourself to Align Curriculum with the Common Core Learning Standard Martin Odudukudu,2013-09-30 Ahead of the curveThe good things about the Common Core Learning Standard CCLS is that the name is all encompassing it may refer to the common core of what students want common core of what students are expected to know learn common core of knowledge in general The CCLS is in this sense

self explanatory What is difficult however is in aligning curricula with the CCLS It is one thing to teach students about the importance of learning and or how to write a report or solve algebraic equations but it is quite another to teachers students to learn independently A teacher may teach or even explain concepts well to students but without facilitating students to develop interest in learning and to learn well independently the task is only half done Aligning the curricula with the CCLS and or explaining how learning tasks must be developed and built in order to help students to learn well is important This may be the most challenging aspect of teaching and this may be a main reason we maintain persistent educational problems The Common Core Learning Standard may be very valuable but according to authors of the CCLS the Federal and State education agencies and or representative do not pretend to know about local events and conditions they do not teach local agencies and or teachers how to teach in their local schools Thus where curriculum publishers and local education representative cannot consider students interest they often use substandard criteria to align curriculum with CCLS and we maintain persistent educational problems Aligning curricula with the CCLS requires a clear understanding of the motivations behind the CCLS Student learning becomes more efficient if teachers can develop and guide learning tasks in view of the requirements for success in the outside world In this monograph we explain the motivations behind the Common Core Learning Standard CCLS we point to its limitations and introduce the reader to the instructional methods of Goal and Task Teaching and Learning GTTL The GTTL was developed over a course of twenty five years of research of interest by the founder of CDOIL Inc and we continue to refine the techniques The GTTL complement the Common Core Learning Standard CCLS in that its central focus is student interest GTTL emphasizes the need to recognize student interest facilitate promote student learning and help them to develop increased interest in learning This monograph is divided into three sections SECTION ONE we focus upon analyzing concepts of interest Here we expound John Dewey s 1934 definition of interest from the standpoint of the English Language dictionary definition of interest and the definitions advanced by other writers We attempt to expound the connections between student interest and the Common Core Learning Standard CCLS and we categorize educators in accordance to the various beliefs views that educators have regarding student interest SECTION TWO we expound an aspect of the Common Core Learning Standard that most educators rarely consider that is student interest as a core in the consideration and genesis of the CCLS Many educators do not consider student interest Nevertheless we point out that student interest is vitally important that though the CCLS is intended to curb substandard learning many student would still not learn well if teachers do not and cannot consider student interest SECTION Three we describe what should be the most appropriate methods of delivering instructions in view of student interest and of developing viable and efficient methods of helping students to learn well Here we point out the connections between the CCLS and the GTTL methods We attempt to clarify what students think or do prior to and during learning tasks and how these affect what they do during and after learning To learn more about GTTL at cdoil.org Dr Martin Odudukudu CEO CDOIL Inc Common Core

Curriculum Maps in English Language Arts Common Core, 2011-10-04 The first books to present specific guidance for teaching the Common Core State Standards Forty three states plus D C and the U S Virgin Islands have signed on to adopt the Common Core State Standards CCSS The need for curriculum guides to assist teachers in helping students meet these standards has become imperative Created by teachers for teachers the research based curriculum maps in this book present a comprehensive coherent sequence of thematic units for teaching the skills outlined in the CCSS for English language arts in Grades 6 8 Each grade is broken down into six units that include focus standards suggested works sample activities and assessments lesson plans etc Teachers can use the maps to plan their year and craft their own more detailed lesson plans The maps address every standard in the CCSS yet are flexible and adaptable to accommodate diverse teaching styles Any teacher school or district that chooses to follow the Common Core maps can be confident that they are adhering to the standards

Preparing Teachers for the Common Core Kathleen Paliokas, 2014 Implementing new college and career readiness standards along with readying teachers and students for new assessments is a monumental undertaking by multiple national state and local education leaders and organizations One critical policy area for states to consider is supports for educator preparation programs to ensure that new teachers entering the classroom are well prepared to help their students achieve the Common Core State Standards To help share information and resources across states the Center on Great Teachers and Leaders partner the Council of Chief State School Officers CCSSO asked the team leads of its 30 member State Consortium on Educator Effectiveness to share how they are helping teacher preparation programs in their state align preparation program curricula to the Common Core State Standards In addition expert staff working with the new student assessment consortia provided examples of leading practices Based on the information collected four common approaches states have taken to align teacher preparation curricula to the Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts and Mathematics were identified 1 Align teaching standards and licensure requirements to Common Core 2 Support faculty through professional development 3 Integrate Common Core into program approval and accountability requirements and 4 Integrate Common Core into state teacher licensure assessments
