North Korea's Military-Diplomatic Campaigns, 1966-2008 Narushige Michishita, 2009-10-16 This book examines North Korea s nuclear diplomacy over a long time period from the early 1960s setting its dangerous brinkmanship in the wider context of North Korea's military and diplomatic campaigns to achieve its political goals. It argues that the last four decades of military adventurism demonstrates Pyongyang's consistent calculated use of military tools to advance strategic objectives vis-à-vis its adversaries. It shows how recent behavior of the North Korean government is entirely consistent with its behavior over this longer period: the North Korean government's conduct rather than being haphazard or reactive is rational in the Clausewitzian sense of being ready to use force as an extension of diplomacy by other means. The book goes on to demonstrate that North Korea's calculated adventurism has come full circle: what we are seeing now is a modified repetition of earlier events such as the Pueblo incident of 1968 and the nuclear and missile diplomacy of the 1990s. Using extensive interviews in the United States and South Korea including those with defected North Korean government officials alongside newly declassified first-hand material from U.S., South Korean and former Communist bloc archives, the book argues that whilst North Korea's military diplomatic campaigns have intensified, its policy objectives have become more conservative and are aimed at regime survival, normalization of relations with the United States and Japan and obtaining economic aid.

It concludes by mapping out the next steps to bring it to its strategic mission.      Economic Integration in South Asia Rizwanul Islam, 2012-03-28. Eight member countries of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) have recently concluded the Agreement on South Asian Free Trade Area (SAFTA) and SAARC Agreement on Trade in Services (SATIS). To date, the progress of sub-regional trade integration in South Asia appears to be rather lacklustre. This book critically analyses the international legal aspects of economic integration in South Asia. It argues that although there are economic constraints in bringing about greater economic integration in South Asia, those constraints are not insurmountable. Many of the constraints are merely outcomes of dubious policies pursued by the policy makers in the sub-region and can be tackled with sustained political commitment towards the cause of the South Asian economic integration.
