A Clash of Paradigms: Response and Development in the South Pacific Suan Maiava, 2024-11-01 This title was first published in 2001 This study indicates that researchers have far to go in understanding and assessing how development projects work The author shows that often the perception of failure is not shared by those whom were intended to benefit She uses a case study of Samoan villagers introduced to cattle farming to examine the wider development process and challenge the conventional theories By drawing on people centred perspectives that give much greater weight to the role of culture in development the volume does not simply criticize development project management but suggests practical and positive ways forward encouraging spontaneous indigenous development which should be supported by projects where appropriate

Inclusive Aid Leslie Christine Groves, Rachel Barbara Hinton, 2013 Rapid and profound changes are taking place in international development The past two decades have promoted the ideals of participation and partnership yet key decisions affecting people's lives continue to be made without sufficient attention to the socio political realities of the countries in which they live Embedded working traditions vested interests and institutional inertia mean that old habits and cultures persist among the development community Planning continues as though it were free of unpredictable interactions among stakeholders This book is about the need to recognise the complex non linear nature of development assistance and how bureaucratic procedures and power relations hinder poverty reduction in the new aid environment The book begins with a conceptual and historical analysis of aid exposing the challenges and opportunities facing aid professionals today It argues for greater attention to accountability and the adoption of rights based approaches In section two practitioners policy makers and researchers discuss the realities of power and relationships from their experiences across sixteen countries Their accounts from government donors and civil society expose the highly politicised and dynamic aid environment in which they work Section three explores ways forward for aid agencies challenging existing political institutional and personal ways of working Authors describe procedural innovations as strategic ways to leverage change Breaking the barriers to ensure more inclusive aid will require visionary leadership and a courageous commitment to change Crucially the authors show how translating rhetoric into practice relies on changing the attitudes and behaviours of individual actors Only then is the ambitious agenda of the Millennium Development Goals likely to be met The result is an indispensable contribution to the understanding of how development assistance and poverty reduction can be most effectively delivered by the professionals and agencies involved
