"I am unpersuaded by the view that the prime rules of scientific method should differ between 'hard science' and the social sciences. Science is science."

—Stephen Van Evera, Guide to Methods

Overview: This course is designed to introduce students to the concepts and mechanics of political science research. The process of scientific political research will be the starting point for the course, which will then proceed to an understanding of gathering and testing data using basic statistical methods.

The course begins with consideration of what makes political science a "science". What logic must we follow to engage in scientific consideration of political phenomenon? That is, how is research conducted, how is it designed, what is the process by which we engage in the study of political phenomenon?

The course moves on to consider approaches to quantitative research. The topics in this section are based on understanding the gathering of data and design of research tests. What are the fundamental concepts required to understand quantitative methods in political science? How are samples collected? What is the difference between a sample and population? How are tests designed to make the best use of the sample data?

The next section of the course focuses on statistical concepts in the quantitative research process. Included in this section is understanding the use of descriptive statistics, and nonparametric measures of statistical relationship. Students will become familiar with use of excel and SPSS for statistical analysis and with the proper methods of reporting research results using tables, charts, and graphs.

This course is primarily focused on quantitative methods of political analysis. Time permitting qualitative methods will also be discussed. Quantitative analysis requires the development of an understanding for use of statistics to analyze the relationship between variables. Using statistics does mean using mathematical formulas. However, none of the formulas for this course exceed what a person could reasonably be expected to have learned in a basic college algebra class.

Scalable and Efficient Probabilistic Topic Model Inference for Textual Data Måns Magnusson, 2018-04-27

Probabilistic topic models have proven to be an extremely versatile class of mixed membership models for discovering the thematic structure of text collections. There are many possible applications covering a broad range of areas of study: technology, natural science, social science and the humanities. In this thesis, a new efficient parallel Markov Chain Monte Carlo inference algorithm is proposed for Bayesian inference in large topic models. The proposed methods scale well with the corpus size and can be used for other probabilistic topic models and other natural language processing applications. The proposed methods are fast, efficient, scalable and will converge to the true posterior distribution. In addition, in this thesis, a supervised topic model for high dimensional text classification is also proposed with emphasis on interpretable document prediction using the horseshoe shrinkage prior in supervised topic models. Finally, we develop a model and inference algorithm that can model agenda and framing of political speeches over time with a priori defined topics. We apply the approach to analyze the evolution of immigration discourse in the Swedish parliament by combining theory from political science and communication science with a probabilistic topic model.

Probabilistiska mnesmodeller: topic models är en mångsidig klass av modeller för att estimerasammansättningarna i stora corpusar. Applikationer finns i ett flertal vetenskapsområden som teknik, naturvetenskap, samhällsvetenskap och humaniora. I denna avhandling presenteras nya effektiva och parallella Markov Chain Monte Carlo algoritmer för Bayesianska mnesmodeller. De föreslagna metoderna skalar väl med storleken på corpuset och kan användas för flera olika mnesmodeller och liknande modeller inom språkteknologi. De föreslagna metoderna är snabba, effektiva, skalbara och konvergerar till den sanna posteriorfördelningen. Dessutom föreslås en mnesmodell för högh dimensionell textklassificering med tonvikt på tolkningsbar dokumentklassificering genom att använda en kraftigt regulariserande priorfördelningar. Slutligen utvecklas en mnesmodell för att analysera agenda och framing för ett förutbestämt ämne. Med denna metod analyseras vi invandringsdiskursen i Sveriges Riksdag över tid genom att kombinera teori från statsvetenskap, kommunikationsvetenskap och probabilistiska mnesmodeller.
