

Handout Teacher Guide

I introduce the book through a discussion of summer family activities and my students' experiences with camping. We also discuss earthquakes using the US Geological Survey's website: www.earthquake.usgs.gov/learn/tddy/ . The following guide describes how I use the packet and what I expect from my students as they complete each activity. Students are expected to read at least two chapters for each assignment.

Cover Page - pg 1:

Students are expected to design their own book cover. They complete this activity while reading the story and must have it completed by the final due date. There is room on the cover page for their favorite character quote and act as a critic and write their opinion of the story.

Character Analysis - pgs 2 & 3:

Chapters to Read: 1 & 2

After reading, students will analyze the two main characters of the story: Jonathan and Abby. Students begin by drawing their own pictures of the characters. They will then explore the characters' personality traits, roles, quotes, actions, thoughts/feeling, and make connections between themselves and the characters.

Event Summary - pg 4:

Chapters to Read: 3 & 4

Students will summarize the events of the story so far by writing a newspaper article. Students are encouraged to include: who, what, when, and where, as well as how well Jonathan and Abby are doing.

Compare/Contrast - pg 4:

Chapters to Read: 5 & 6

Students will compare and contrast Jonathan's two plans for survival.

Prediction - pg 5:

Chapters to Read: 7 & 8

Students are expected to write a paragraph predicting how the students will survive the situation they are in. Students are encouraged to use descriptive details and include characters, setting, and subplots.

Character Development - pg 5:

Chapters to Read: 9 & 10

Students analyze how the author has developed Jonathan throughout the story. In groups, students discuss the decisions Jonathan has had to make and how those decisions have made lasting changes on him. Students then write what new personality traits he has and how it is presented in the book.
