Biology 30 Unit D: Population and Community Dynamics

This is a list of some things you'll want to be able to do for the unit exam. This is not a complete list of everything that will be on the exam. If you can check off most of these boxes without looking at your notes, you have a good opportunity to do well on the exam.

Unit D: Population and Community Dynamics

Students must be able to:

- ☐ Recall all definitions, such as: system, equilibrium, population, Hardy-Weinberg principle, community, individual, gene pool, natural selection, symbiosis, succession, natality, mortality, immigration, diversity, emigration, r-selected, K-selected
- ☐ Define the Hardy-Weinberg principle. Explain why it's significant in population gene-pool stability and nonequilibrium values
- ☐ Explain how genetic drift, natural selection, gene flow, nonrandom mating, bottleneck effects, founder effects, mutation, and mutation all contribute to the genetic diversity of a gene pool
- ☐ Use the Hardy-Weinberg principle to determine allele and genotype frequency in a set of data by using the equations $p + q = 1$ and $p^2 + 2pq + q^2 = 1$
- ☐ Explain how mutations and natural selection are at the molecular level and how significant they are over time
- ☐ Correctly apply significant digits when making calculations
- ☐ Explain predator-prey and consumer-producer relationships
- ☐ Define commensalism, mutualism, and parasitism
- ☐ Differentiate between interspecific and intraspecific competition
- ☐ Give examples of defence mechanisms and how they affect predation and competition
- ☐ Explain how population structures may change over time or day as a climax community
- ☐ Define primary and secondary succession
- ☐ Analyse succession patterns over time
- ☐ Calculate change in population size using the formula: $\Delta N = [\text{natality} + \text{immigration}] - [\text{mortality} + \text{emigration}]$
- ☐ Use formulas to calculate: growth rate, per capita growth rate, and population density
- ☐ Identify a growth pattern as either logistic (S-shaped) or exponential (J-shaped)
- ☐ Explain the difference between open and closed populations
- ☐ Identify a species as r or K selected based on characteristics or reproductive strategies
- ☐ Evaluate how environmental factors can affect population growth
- ☐ Analyse graphical data on r or K selected species

Costantino, Robert A. Desharnais, 2012-12-06 The study of populations is becoming increasingly focused on dynamics We believe there are two reasons for this trend The first is the impact of nonlinear dynamics with its exciting ideas and colorful language bifurcations domains of attraction chaos fractals strange attractors Complexity which is so very much a part of biology now seems to be also a part of mathematics A second trend is the accessibility of the new concepts The barriers to communication between theorist and experimentalist seemless impenetrable The active participation of the experimentalist means that the theory will obtain substance Our role is the application of the theory of dynamics to the analysis of biological populations We began our work early in 1979 by writing an ordinary differential equation for the rate of change in adult numbers which was based on an equilibrium model proposed a decade earlier During the next few months we filled our notebooks with straightforward deductions from the model and its associated biological implications Slowly some of the biological observations were explained and papers followed on a variety of topics genetic and demographic stability stationary probability distributions for population size population growth as a birth-death process natural selection and density dependent population growth genetic disequilibrium and the stationary stochastic dynamics of adult numbers

The Population Dynamics of Infectious Diseases: Theory and Applications Roy M. Anderson, 2013-11-22 Since the beginning of this century there has been a growing interest in the study of the epidemiology and population dynamics of infectious disease agents Mathematical and statistical methods have played an important role in the development of this field and a large and sophisticated literature exists which is concerned with the theory of epidemiological processes in populations and the dynamics of epidemic and endemic disease phenomena Much of this literature is however rather formal and abstract in character and the field has tended to become rather detached from its empirical base Relatively little of the literature for example deals with the practical issues which are of major concern to public health workers Encouragingly in recent years there are signs of an increased awareness amongst theoreticians of the need to confront predictions with observed epidemiological trends and to pay close attention to the biological details of the interaction between host and disease agent This trend has in part been stimulated by the early work of Ross and Macdonald on the transmission dynamics of tropical parasitic infections but a further impetus has been the recent advances made by ecologists in blending theory and observation in the study of plant and animal populations
