The Journal of Neuroscience ,1999      Some Effects of Respiratory and Cardial Cycles Enoch Callaway, LANGLEY PORTER NEUROPSYCHIATRIC INST SAN FRANCISCO CA.,1965 This report deals with changes in the central nervous system function that can be related to phases of respiratory cycle and phases of the cardiac cycle Primary emphasis is on voluntary motor function The report consists of six sections Section 1 demonstrates that involuntary acts do not occur with equal frequency throughout the cardiac cycle although there is great individual variability Young subjects with low blood pressure tend to institute fewest acts at the time of systole and more frequently institute acts midway through the cardiac cycle Section 2 demonstrates that the form of the average vertex visual evoked response depends on phase both of respiratory and cardiac cycles Section 3 similarly deals with electroencephalogram and demonstrates that EEG alpha waves are synchronized with the cardiac cycle Section 4 shows that reaction time is fastest when stimuli are given at expiration The discrepancy between this finding and other reports in the literature is discussed Section 5 shows that the monosynaptic reflex response of the calf muscle produced by stimulating the tibial nerve the H reflex response is largest in inspiration in most subjects although in one subject the reverse results were obtained at a statistically significant level Author      The Relation of the Heart Rate to the Respiratory Cycle Mary Eliza McDaniel,1920
