Federal Register ,2003-10 Central Government's Management of Service Contracts House of Commons Public Accounts Committ,2009-04-28 In 2007 08 central government spent over 12 billion on service contracts primarily in the areas of information and communication technology facilities management and business process outsourcing and an estimated 240 million on managing these contracts In most cases central government monitors the performance of its suppliers but it makes limited use of financial incentives to encourage suppliers to improve performance and does not always apply financial penalties where suppliers under performed Testing of value for money of ongoing services and contract changes is variable Planning and governance is one of the weaker areas of contract management Less than half the organisations surveyed had an individual with overall responsibility for contract management and there was no documented plan for managing 28 per cent of contracts In addition many contracts do not have in place some or all of the elements of good practice risk management No commercial director head of procurement rated the level of resources allocated to the management of their major contracts as good and 22 per cent of contract managers considered they did not have time to perform their responsibilities well Most contract managers had undertaken relevant training although 60 per cent of organisations did not provide a structured training programme for their staff The Office of Government Commerce is to issue further guidance on contract management in April 2009 building on the good practice framework it published jointly with the National Audit Office and it is working to improve the provision of training on contract management It is also extending its monitoring of major suppliers to government and is reviewing recent examples of service failure where contractors failed to perform to identify lessons for the future Decisions and Orders of the National Labor Relations Board United States. National Labor Relations Board,2013 Labor Relations Reference Manual ,1986 Changing the Game Eric G. Flamholtz,Yvonne Randle,1998-10-01 How do companies like Microsoft and Wal Mart rise to the top of their industries and dominate year after year while others like People Express and LA Gear burn out after promising starts In Changing the Game Eric Flamholtz and Yvonne Randle two leading management consultants reveal that the key to success lies in how you transform your organization Virtually all organizations face critical transition points in their life cycle when they must change how they play the game or perish Flamholtz and Randle focus here on three critical moments the move from entrepreneurial to professional management when a firm reaches a stage of growth where it can no longer operate in an informal unstructured way the revitalization of an established business that is losing ground to competitors and a radical change in a business vision The authors show for instance how American Century Investors made the transformation from a 50 million entrepreneurship to a professionally managed company with a market value of 2 billion how IBM one of the great American corporations was forced by the proliferation of PCs in the 1980s to overhaul its business to survive and how Starbucks Coffee originally a Seattle coffee bean store was inspired by Milans romantic coffee bars to recreate itself and transformed an entire industry The book concludes with a look at how one company Bell Carter Olive Company pulled together all the concepts and tools presented in the book and successfully changed the game Changing the Game provides a comprehensive framework and a set of tools for the strategic management of organizational transformation It will help managers meet the challenges of an increasingly competitive business environment Commerce Business Daily ,1998-11 Autocar ,2006
